Parenting Capacity Assessment as a Colonial Strategy Peter Choate¹ and Gabrielle Lindstrom² Abstract
Parenting capacity assessments are a common tool used by child intervention programs. The skill of the applicant was high as he had years of experience working as a systems administrator for a law firm. Capacity building (or capacity development) is the process by which individuals and organizations obtain, improve, and retain the skills, knowledge, tools, equipment and other resources needed to do their jobs competently or to a greater capacity (larger scale, larger audience, larger impact, etc). Capacity building and capacity development are often used interchangeably.³ INTRODUCTION The Compassion Capital Fund (CCF), administered by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, provided capacity building grants to expand and strengthen the role of nonprofit organizations in their ability
